

Yunmoxiao Tian

Tel: +86-13659039050; Email: 2200018214@stu.pku.edu.cn

EDUCATION

• Peking University (PKU) Beijing, China
B.A. in English Language and Literature Sept. 2022 – Jun. 2027
Double Major: Sociology Sept. 2024 – Jun. 2027
GPA: 91.30/100.00 (3.83/4.00)

Relevant Courses: Social Statistics; Urban Sociology; Social Psychology; Social Stratification and Mobility; Sociology of Population; Sociological Theories; Critical Introduction to Popular Culture

• University of Copenhagen Copenhagen, Denmark
Exchange Student, Faculty of Humanities Sept. 2025 – Jan. 2026
Relevant Courses: Creative Writing Workshop

• King's College London London, United Kingdom
“Media, Gender, and Culture” Workshop, Summer School Jul. 2024

Honors: PKU Outstanding Research Award (2024 – 2025); PKU Merit Student (2023 – 2024); PKU Scholarship (2023 – 2024; 2024 – 2025); PKU Overseas Exchange Scholarship (2025 – 2026); PKU Excellent Journalist (2022 – 2023; 2023 – 2024; 2024 – 2025); PKU Social Work Award (2022 – 2023)

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Standardizing the Nonstandard: Organized Variation in a Chinese Bar Chain

Beijing/Guangzhou, China

Independent Research Project, supervised by Assoc. Prof. Wang Di (Department of Sociology), Peking University March. 2025 – Present

- Conducted a qualitative case study of Drunk N' Jump, a Chinese multi-city bar chain, investigating how an organization reproduces participant-produced sociability across outlets while leaving the content and outcomes of interaction open.
- Drew on participant observation across five outlets in Beijing and Guangzhou, interviews with customers, guest bartenders and former employees, together with online posts and visual materials; engaging research on organizational replication, consumer work, and participatory service production.
- Developed the concept of organized variation as a replication process to explain how standardized recruitment, role assignment, activity support, and content selection incorporate heterogeneous participants and their contributions into recurring organizational forms, while generating tensions including uneven attention, exclusion, fatigue, and turnover.

European Research Council–Funded Project: China Africa Fashion Power Research (CAFP)

Amsterdam, the Netherlands

Research Assistant, supervised by Assoc. Prof. Tommy Tse, University of Amsterdam

Jun. 2026 – Present

- Organized and processed fieldwork materials collected in Kenya for a European Research Council Consolidator Grant project on China – Africa fashion value chains.
- Analyzed fieldwork materials, industry reports, and other research sources concerning fashion production, circulation, and consumption, including the impact of artificial intelligence on fashion e-commerce.
- Conducted mixed-methods research on sustainable fashion, combining literature review, market analysis, and qualitative and quantitative data collection to inform the conceptual development of a digital platform.

Brand Message Consistency Across Platforms

Montréal, Canada

Research Assistant, supervised by Asst. Prof. Holly Howe, HEC Montréal

Jun. 2025 – Sept. 2025

- Led the organisation, screening, and categorisation of visual message features across brand communications, systematically extracting features based on relevance, operational clarity, and theoretical grounding, and developing a structured feature taxonomy for cross-platform analysis.
- Conducted a targeted literature review on visual communication and brand messaging, and performed exploratory data analysis using Python to support feature validation and preliminary pattern identification, contributing to the empirical preparation of subsequent quantitative and experimental studies.

NewsAgent: A Research-Based System for AI-Supported News Writing

Beijing, China

Research Assistant, University-awarded Research Project, supervised by Prof. Yan Hongfei & Prof. Chen Kaihe, Peking University

Nov. 2024 – May. 2025

- Conducted a critical review of how AI-assisted writing technologies reshape journalistic knowledge production, identifying cognitive and structural limitations of dialogue-based large language models in long-form analysis, including fragmented context management and analytical disruption.
- Co-developed the concept of “NewsAgent”, a research-based writing system organised around contextual “cells” and an agent-based human–AI collaboration framework, enabling sustained analytical reasoning and reflective AI support rather than automated content generation.

Cross-Cultural Adaptation and Reception of Shakespearean Derivative Theatre: A Case Study of “Into the Breeches!”

Beijing, China

Independent Research Project, supervised by Prof. Ni Yun, Peking University

Oct. 2023 – Mar. 2024

- Combined comparative textual analysis, theatre reviews, and interviews to examine how gender, race, and sexuality were interpreted and negotiated in the cross-cultural reception of Into the Breeches! and Shakespeare’s Henriad.

INTERNSHIP

People Magazine 《人物》

Beijing, China

Intern Journalist, Editorial supervision by Yi Fangxing (nonfiction writer)

Jul. 2024 – Jan. 2025

- Independently wrote 9 feature articles based on interviews with approximately 80–90 individuals over 7 months, covering emerging urban youth cultures and consumption practices, the articles accumulated over 1,000,000 total views.
- As one of the first journalists in China to systematically investigate the “academic bar” phenomenon, carried out interviews and close communication with organizers and participants, examining how semi-public leisure spaces function as sites of knowledge exchange, social belonging, and cultural aspiration among Gen Z. The article received over 100,000 reads within the first hour of publication and was widely circulated (10,000+ shares).

BlueFocus Communication Group

Beijing, China

Global Marketing Intern

Jan. 2025 – Apr. 2025

- Supported international marketing projects for consumer technology brands including Midea, Xiaomi, and Dreame, conducting competitor analysis and market research to identify their product positioning, consumer trends, and communication opportunities in overseas markets.
- Contributed to public relations strategy analysis, prepared monthly performance reports on international social media channels, and participated in brainstorming and developing integrated marketing campaigns.

Madame Figaro China

Beijing / Shanghai, China

Fashion Editorial Intern

Apr. 2025 – Jun. 2025

- Conducted research on emerging fashion trends, designer brands, and broader cultural developments, while writing, editing, and fact-checking fashion and lifestyle content for the magazine’s editorial and digital platforms.
- Supported the planning and on-site execution of Madame Figaro’s “Passion, My Way” (热爱由我) red-carpet event at the Bund in Shanghai, coordinating event operations and conducting interviews with Chinese celebrities.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Official WeChat Team, Peking University Beijing, China
Reporter & Editor Oct. 2022 – Present

- Identified and reported on emerging campus topics, including notable individuals, student-led events, and evolving cultural trends; researched, interviewed, and wrote 10+ in-depth articles, several of which received 100,000+ views and were republished by national media outlets, including People’s Daily.

New Media Center, School of Foreign Languages, Peking University Beijing, China
Deputy Director Sept. 2024 – Jun. 2025

- Coordinate and edit articles, ensuring high-quality content.
- Collaborate with other departments to organize extracurricular activities for students.

22nd Asian Elite Business Scholars Global Exchange Program NUS, Singapore
Student Delegate, Peking University Branch Jan. 2025

- Represented Peking University at a five-day international exchange hosted by the National University of Singapore, presenting research on AI applications in Beijing and visiting Accenture and Singapore’s Land Transport Authority; the delegation received the Best Event Performance Award.

Peking University Centennial Hall Beijing, China
Student Assistant of Film Department Mar. - Jun. 2024

- Planned and executed film events, such as “The Fallen Judgment” premiere and film appreciation activities with Prof. Dai Jinhua.

VOLUNTEER EXPERIENCE

Beijing First Social Welfare Institute Mar. 2024 – Jun. 2024 | Beijing, China

- Designed and conducted interactive English lessons for seniors, adapted content to their learning needs, and enhanced their English levels and communication skills.

“Yapan” Winter Camp on Ethnic Culture Jan. 2024 – Feb. 2024 | Hubei, China

- As a volunteer and photographer, led local students in ethnographic research on Tujia culture and produced and edited video materials to promote the program’s impact.

International Volunteer Program Jul. 2023 – Aug. 2023 | Wattala, Sri Lanka

- Tutored local students in English and mathematics, engaged in cross-cultural exchanges, participated in the design of the school libraries, provided suggestions for improvement, and contributed to the enhancement of the local educational environment.

SKILLS & INTERESTS

Languages: Mandarin (Native), English (Proficient), Russian (Basic), Spanish (Basic)
Computer Skills: Python, Stata, Microsoft Office, Photoshop, AI tools
Interests: Photography, Creative Writing, Drum Set, Guitar